$45,000 CONTRACT LET FOR WORK OF REMODELING OLD HOTEL BLOCK

The Taylor & Owens, contractors and architects have been given the $45,000 contract by P. G. Saba, of The Boston Store, Main-st., to erect a new three story brick building adjoining the Standen hotel building on the north side to the Chacos building on south Sixth-st., between Walnut and Main-st. and to remodel the Standen hotel, which was recently purchased by Mr. Saba from Edward Standen.

Mr. Saba purchased the Standen hotel and land north of the building on the Sixth-st. side up to the Standen residence for $25,000. Last week he purchased the Standen residence on Sixth-st. from Mr. Standen for $5,000. The Standen residence will be moved from its present location on August 20 and placed on the tennis court on the C. D. Brooks lot, south Sixth-st. Mr. Saba expects to move his family in the residence as soon as it has been moved to that place and remodeled.

The contract for building an addition to the hotel building and remodeling the present hotel building entails a cost of $45,000. It is the plan of Mr. Saba to have erected one

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—For centuries the Christian peoples of the world have been hoping and praying that Palestine, with its holy places and memories, would be taken from the hands of the infidel Mohammedans and fall into the possession of a Christian nation. They have had a strong hope that a state might be erected there which would symbolize peace and good will on earth; and that the influence of such a state would have a profound bearing on the efforts to bring concord to all humanity.

Palestine is now in the hands of a Christian nation. The British have control of the holy places and the chief voice in the destiny of the land. But Palestine is not peaceful. It has become one of the sore spots for European diplomacy; and there is every indication that conditions will become worse instead of better. The Balkans have an unenviable reputation as wreckers of peace; and Palestine seems destined to join them in unsavory repute.

Many Peoples Quarreling
The Holy Land, in fact, is the center of quarrels of the bitterest sort, in which Jews and Mohammedans, Protestant and Catholic and Greek Orthodox Christians (and many strange sects of all the big faiths) are ready to fly at each other if occasion offers.

MANY WOULD ENTER AS INDEPENDENTS IN THE FALL CAMPAIGN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 12.—Secretary of State Smith today was in receipt of scores of letters from all parts of the state, inquiring as to the official procedure necessary for entering the fall campaign as an independent candidate.

Some of the inquiries, according to Secretary Smith, expressed dissatisfaction over the treatment they received in the recent primaries.

Secretary Smith expressed belief that the majority of the communications were from defeated candidates.

WEST CARLISLE MASON'S PICNIC

The West Carlisle Masonic picnic, held at Gault's Grove, near West Carlisle, Saturday was well attended. Attorney L. C. Wiggins and Rev. McCleod gave splendid addresses at the picnic. The day was enjoyed in games, amusements of all kinds and sports, including horseshoe pitching and races, participated in by young and old.

Refreshments were served on the ground.

It was considered one of the biggest events held in that vicinity for some time. The picnic was given under the auspices of the Masonic lodge of West Carlisle.

BABSON DISCUSSES GERMAN FINANCIAL CONDITIONS AND A POSSIBLE WAY OUT

Says Friendly Reorganization Of Her Finance Will Boom American Business

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Aug. 12.—The German question was discussed today by Roger W. Babson, statistician, who has been entangling the international and financial situation.

"Germany has failed to meet her obligation on the indemnity payments," says Mr. Babson, "and like any other concern is judged bankrupt. We face the same situation that we find when a business can not pay its debts. We either have a re-organization and try to get it back onto its feet or we call in the referee and judge it bankrupt and sell its assets and put it out of business."

"The world is now having a creditors' meeting to decide what is to be done with Germany. Up to the present time France, the largest creditor, has been taking the pound of flesh. It is only within the past few days that she has offered any other proposition. Now, however, France sees that if she will let Germany off that, England will let France off. It is understood that a French ambassador is dealing with the United States government at this time, in the hope that the republic may be released from some of the debts she owes to us. These later developments are favorable indeed, and strongly suggest (Continued On Page Three)

AGED WOMAN BADLY HURT BY FALLING

No improvement was shown Saturday evening in the condition of Mrs. Kate Nelson, aged about 75, of Canal Lewisville, who is at present confined to the home of her brother, James Nelson, Orchard-st., suffering from a fractured hip.

Mrs. Nelson sustained a fracture of her hip Friday evening when she stumbled and fell on the ground.

The Peoples ambulance brot her to her brother's home, Saturday afternoon.

DAYTON PROHIBITION CASE AGAIN BROT TO COURT TO TEST LAW

DAYTON, O., Aug. 12.—The anti-saloon league has placed Cueto Popovitch in jeopardy a second time on charges of violating the liquor laws, after having been fined for three offenses in Miamisburg, according to Mayor E. T. Munica, against whom charges have been preferred by the officials of the dry league.

Munica today said he would gladly welcome any investigation which Governor Davis might authorize. He said "Popovitch was brot into court a second time after having been fined once, not to try him again but to try me." T. B. Jarvis, state counselor for the anti-saloon league is back of the new case against Popovitch and the Miamisburg mayor. Jarvis declares Munica's records were altered. This Munica admits but declares the alterations were made according to law and in agreement with the facts in the case. Popovitch was fined each of three counts, and has been dragged into court a second time by the ardent dries. Munica said today that his books and his administration are open to anyone who cares to investigate, and unless the dry officials go thru with their program, he himself will demand a sweeping investigation which it is said may produce some complications not expected.

Freight Destroyed In $100,000 Fire

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—More than $100,000 worth of miscellaneous freight was destroyed in a mysterious fire which swept the New York Central railroad's freight pier and adjoining yard at the foot of West 65th street on the North River today. Ten cars were damaged. The blaze started in a freight car which had been backed to the far end of the pier to have its cargo transferred to a barge.

Three fire boats hurried up on the river side and trailed nozzles on the burning cars and pier.

NEW RECORD IS MADE IN NIGHT FLYING

Lieutenant Clayton Bissell, of the U. S. Army Air Service, has just completed the first airplane night flight across country. He started from Bolling Field, near Washington, at 9 30 p. m. and, being compelled by storms to fly in a roundabout route, arrived over New York at midnight. He used directional wireless to find his way, but on the return laid a straight compass course for the capital, reaching there at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Fright Cheats Rope Of Man's Life And Another Prepares For Own Funeral

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—"Heart failure" was the verdict of the coroner's physicians when the body of an unidentified man was found hanging to day with a rope around his neck. The man, in the opinion of physicians had probably died from sheer fright before he succeeded in strangling himself with the rope.

DETROIT, Aug. 12.—The body of Ryerson Sallis, 32, is being shipped today to Palmetton, Ontario, in accordance with funeral arrangements made by Sallis while he was preparing to take his own life. Sallis died in his brother's home, from chloroform, self administered, two days ago.

John Armstrong, undertaker, was sitting in front of his office when Sallis walked past. "How much do funerals cost?" asked Sallis.

Armstrong told Sallis it depended on what arrangements were made and Sallis then picked out a coffin. He refused to give any details of the death for which he was ordering the coffin.

Friday Sallis again visited Armstrong and had him prepare an addition to his will. Last night Armstrong received a telephone call from Sallis. "Can you come right over?" asked Sallis. Armstrong went to the house. Sallis was writing letters. "You will have to come back later," Sallis said. At midnight Sallis' brother called the undertaker. Sallis was dead.

EXECUTIVES OFFER 'COMPROMISE' PLAN TO PRES. HARDING; WILL KEEP 'SCABS'

Has Little Chance, However, Of Acceptance By Rail Workers; Seniority Big Problem

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—A compromise plan which neither surrenders the position of the railroads nor rejects flatly President Harding's suggestions for an armistice in the rail strike, was presented to President Harding in Washington at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon by a committee headed by T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives. The plan, however, has little chance to meet approval of the unions.

The official statement issued after six and one-half hours parley behind closed doors in the Grand Central was non-communitive, but hinted dropped by various officials indicated that the following had occurred:

(A) The hardshells (those executives who believed that the President's plan should be rejected in toto) had lost their fight.

(B) The softshells (those who favored accepting the plan as the best way out of a ticklish situation) had been forced to make heavy compromises to avoid the conference being deadlocked.

(C) Executives will expect further interpretation of the Harding plan before they can begin to restore the old men to their places with full seniority.

(D) The "compromise plan" to include the following points: Agreement of the roads to take back the strikers as fast as they can be absorbed; strikebreakers who have become efficient to be retained, and their seniority to rank above that of the old men coming back, unless the railroad labor board rules otherwise; the (Continued on Page Eight)

HUBBY IN THE WAY, HIS FATHER A CARE; WOMAN SLAYS BOTH, IS CHARGE

WHITE CLOUD, Mich., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Meda Hodell, is held today on a charge of killing her father-in-law David Hodell, 67, because "he was a great care" and her husband, Romie D. Hodell, because "he was in the way." With Mrs. Hodell are held her mother, Mrs. Alice Dudgeon and two brothers, Lee and Herman Dudgeon. Police say all made identical confessions.

A farm hand, Robert Bennett, also is held on statements said to involve him. He has stuck to his story of innocence and has not been arraigned. The four others have waived examination and are waiting trial.

Mrs. Hodell said yesterday that she poisoned her father-in-law after he came to live with her and her husband. She confessed to placing the poison in his coffee. He stumbled and fell dead while carrying in an armful of wood. She told her own folks about the crime but did not tell her husband, she said.

Some weeks later, Mrs. Hodell attacked her husband with a rolling pin and knocked him to the floor. Mrs. Dudgeon also hit her son-in-law and the brothers with the aid of the farm hand took the body and hung it from a rafter in a woodshed.

No Settlement Of Anthracite Strike

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Aug. 12.—Questioned today as to whether or not they would designate a date for a conference with the anthracite mine workers in accordance with the offer made by John L. Lewis, in a letter to the Scranton board of trade, anthracite operators declared they have been trying for several weeks to discuss the differences of the hard coal field without waiting for a settlement in the bituminous field.

Small Strikes In Many Districts; 400 To Go Out At Columbus Monday; Transportation Throttled; Telegraphers Vote On Proposal To Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A desperate eleven-hour effort to prevent a complete tie up of the nation's trunk railroads was in progress at the White House tonight. President Harding is in consultation with both railroad representatives and officers of the brotherhoods.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—While a committee of railroad executives was enroute to Washington this afternoon to conditionally accept President Harding's plan of settling the railroad strike, the six striking shopcrafts completed their reply and dispatched it to the White House.

The reply is understood to reject the terms proposed by the president. At the same time the shopcraft leaders abandoned their plan to call at the White House and it was announced instead that the leaders of the ten unions not on strike, including representatives of the brotherhoods would wait on Mr. Harding at 2:30 for a conference. Union leaders, it is understood, have prepared a general statement of their attitude for presentation to the president and this will be supplemented by verbal reports.

The striking railway shopmen sent their reply to the White House by messenger from the Machinists' building, eight squares away. It is generally understood that they flatly refused to order the men to return to work until their seniority rights were assured.

TO STRIKE MONDAY
COLUMBUS, Aug. 12.—A walkout of about 400 maintenance of way men from the railroad shops here may take place Monday, it was intimated today by local officials of the Maintenance of Way Men's union. The workers are dissatisfied with the action of guards employed at the railroad yards here, claiming that their conduct endangers the safety of the workers.

TELEGRAPHERS TOO
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 12.—Balloting of a strike vote by telegraphers of the Big Four railroad continued today despite reports that the United States Railway Labor board has set a date for the hearing of the telegraphers case. Chairman Whalen said he thought all ballots would be in today and indications are that the telegraphers would be almost unanimous in favor of a walkout.

DENIES RUMOR
CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 12.—W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, denied this afternoon that he had ordered striking brotherhood men on the Santa Fe railroad back to work. "All such reports are false," he said.

RE-ROUTE MAILS
CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The tie-up of the Santa Fe railroad has necessitated the rerouting of United States mails over the Southern Pacific. It was learned officially at the postoffice department today.

GOVERNORS WILL PUT SHOULDER TO MINE CONFERENCE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—Governors of five states, four of which comprise the central competitive field, will assemble here Tuesday morning to throw their influence behind any movement to end the coal tie-up.

President John L. Lewis of the U. M. W. of A. said tonight that the meeting was in no sense a labor state conference and does not intend to represent operators of any particular state or district. We are here to negotiate, if possible, a new wage agreement between the U. M. W. and individual operating interests represented here.

BERLEAN INFANT

The boy was born Tuesday and had been named Robert William. The mother was reported to be doing well, considering the circumstances, Saturday evening.

Race For State Rep., Democratic, Is Closest Of All Contests; Miss Burrell Gets More Than Both Of Her Oppo- nents; Official Count Given

The official total of the votes cast at the primary election, August 8, as counted by the county election board, shows that Lloyd N. Staats, county attorney, beat George M. Stillinger in the race for the Democratic nomination for representative to the general assembly by a margin of exactly 17 votes.

Miss Edith Burrell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for clerk of the common pleas court, received 14 more votes than both of her opponents put together, according to the official count. She received 1,281, James J. Fischer received 547 and E. E. Roamer received 123.

The Democratic contest for the nomination as prosecuting attorney ended by Joseph B. Shepler receiving 1,480 votes and R. B. McDermott, 577.

Charles B. Walker received 1,292 votes for the nomination as Republican county commissioner and J. C. Staats received 760.

An error in the distribution of election supplies resulted in the local county board coming out short on blanks for tabulation of the votes for Judge of the court of appeals, representative to congress and state senator. Only one blank for each was received, and as soon as filled out had to be sent to district and state headquarters. For that reason the official totals on those offices were not available for local publication Saturday.

The official totals for the Republican ticket, as voted in this county, with the above exceptions, is as follows.

Two Transcontinental Routes Are Forced To Suspend Traffic

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 12.—Transcontinental passenger traffic as well as freight traffic was completely tied up today on the Western Pacific—the second eastern outlet of the Pacific coast to be closed. The other is the Santa Fe.

An announcement was made by the Western Pacific that the westbound train No. 3 due here at 7:45 A. M. is tied up at Stockton, Calif., and eastbound train No. 1, which left here last night at 7:45 P. M. is halted at the same point.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN WEEK'S COAL OUTPUT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Production of bituminous coal this week was estimated this afternoon by the geological survey at 4,500,000 tons, an increase of half a million tons over the preceding week.

The increased production was said to be due to gradual improvement in traffic on railroads serving non-union coal fields and to slight increases in the coal coming out of fields previously affected by the mine tie-up.

Despite the increased production reported for this week the geological survey said the amount of coal being mined was still about 550,000 tons below the record set before the shopmen's strike. The geological survey's report stated further that the present rate of output of all coal is about 5,000,000 tons below normal. Detailed records of shipment from each district indicates that the additional coal supply from mines that have reopened is small.

The Gentleman Of Leisure
LIONEL CURTIS, an English delegate to the institute of politics at Williamstown, Mass., courageously attacked the problem of imperial government in a lecture last week. "The problem you have to face in the Philippines and we have to face in India," he said, "is how much scope you can give people to hurt themselves without destroying the fabric of government altogether. In India I was constantly told that it was idle to think of beginning responsible government until a large body of people were educated. My answer to this argument is that it involves a misconception of education and of the objects it seeks to attain. . . . Wisdom is taught only by nature herself in the school of responsibility. Professors will never create electorates fit for political decisions. That fitness will not begin to develop until men are called upon not only to decide public questions, but also to experience the consequences of their own decisions."
Americans as well as Englishmen are fond of saying that Latin-Americans, Haitians, Filipinos, or some of the other non-Caucasian races are incompetent to govern themselves because they are lazy, illiterate, turbulent, or in some other way different from the Caucasian standard. We assume too readily that the pater of the schools is essential to a people's intelligent judgment of their own affairs, or that it always guarantees intelligent judgment.
Mr. Curtis is secretary of the Irish peace conference. Probably he would agree that despite the blood and tears shed since the British marched out of Dublin castle the government of Ireland is in a more hopeful condition now than it has been at any time since Cromwell's day. The Irish are learning by bitter experience "the consequences of their own decisions," whereas they could learn nothing but bitter resentment from the consequences of decisions made for them in Downing street.

The Essence Of Self-Government
"THEY were reared as gentlemen of leisure," said a referee of two applicants for increased income from their mother's estate. "I can impute no blame to them that they had neither occupation nor vocation. They were of a class unique in this country years ago, but not uncommon in recent years. . . . The leisure class, whose existence is due to the accumulation of money by forebears."
This comment attended a recommendation that Robert Mankowski should be allowed a $40,000 instead of a $20,000 income. The argument is obviously along the line that a man should not be blamed if circumstances have given him certain habits. If possible, he should be protected in them.
Back of such a conclusion lies the theory of evolution and its application in modern drama and fiction. Paradoxically, this modern theory is supporting a practice which is less and less accepted. Social toleration of the non-worker is at its minimum today. Mankowski is obviously a non-worker, and he is sanctioned by a former judge of the Appellate Division who bases his reasons on the findings of modern science.
Of course modern science and ex-Justice Jenks do not approve of Mankowski. They are merely interested in giving him justice. The recommendation of the referee really indicated the hard fall that the man of leisure has had in the world. Mankowski in Poland 500 years ago—or anywhere else, for that matter—would have needed no apologist. The man who could be merely decorative was accepted and envied. Today all but a few of our hundred million, rich or poor, will view his theory of life, if not his money, with contempt, and require a logical justification for his being allowed to practise it.

A Tariff Of Abominations
IN voicing decided opposition to the proposed tariff measure, The Boston Advertiser, independent, says: The purpose of a protective tariff is to "protect American labor from cheap foreign competition." That's the formula, and it will be heard again and again so long as selfish interests continue to control the policies of our country.
It was in 1908 that President Taft was elected on a platform that promised a revision of the tariff. When Congress assembled in March, 1909, following Taft's inauguration, its first job was to perpetrate the Payne-Aldrich tariff, revising the tariff upward, the majority in Congress keeping to the letter of their campaign promise, and violating what everyone in America knew was its spirit.
The tariff, revised upward, was supposed to protect American labor. One of the steepest sections of the tariff was the notorious Schedule K, "protecting" labor in the woolen mills. The Lawrence strike of 1912 effectively showed how well labor was "protected," and how much of the protection was to the overflowing coffers of the exploiting masters of the Woolen Trust.
That tariff of abominations was not the least of the influences that smashed the Republican party into fragments and left Taft the worst defeated, the most humiliated President in our history. The American people saw how a tariff works, whom it protects, and what it does to the meager earnings of the people, and they swept Taft out in an avalanche of votes, giving him only eight electoral votes out of 531.
Now the same old Bourbon gang, who learn nothing and forget nothing, are concocting another tariff of abominations. Wool, sugar, other necessities are being jacked up to "protect" labor. And it is a matter of the gravest interest that in this little matter of sugar the Democratic senators, who come from sugar producing regions, are as eager for the highest possible duties as are the steel and woolen Republican senators.
There is to be a political upset as a result of this tariff, as there was as a result of the last "protective" tariff. But is it to be merely a change from woolen and steel and lumber protectionists to sugar protectionists, from Republicans to Democrats?
Groups in power serve the interests they belong to. Lodge and Smoot and Wadsworth and Cady and Frelinghuysen belong to a certain group and they serve that group. You, who read this, belong to a group whose interests are harmed when the interests of Lodge are served.

An election is coming. And there is no law that says that you must vote against your own interests. Remember that when Democratic orators urge you to "turn the rascals out" and put in their places—other servants of the big interests.

New York Day-By-Day
By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The Custom House district on the lower tip of the island bristles with life these days. Thousands of ocean voyagers flock there to get their passports and to visit the great steamship offices that surround the government buildings.
Scores of sandwich men with their raucous banners front and back walk up and down the curbs heralding the dexterity of the quick photo passport shops to which every voyager has to go to be photographed.
There is a uniform courtesy about the custom house employees and they appear to share the thrills of the first time voyagers. Those who offer them fees, aside from the regular $10 charge, are due for a shock. They find that there are men in New York who will not receive tips.
All sorts of seedy salesmen hang around the outside of the building selling Baedeker Guides, cameras, steamer rugs, and there is one professional looking fellow who will tell you about the "real sights" of Paris for a modest charge of $2. Another guarantees to teach you enough French in two hours "to make 'em think you are a native."
The seasoned traveler takes it all as a matter of course but the novice

WALT MASON
THE HAPPY LAD
My car is made of zinc, my car is painted pink; but I'm as gay when on my way, as any wealthy gink. My home is but a shack, a woodshed at the back; but when I'm there 'twould make you stare to see how high I stack. My watch is built of tin, and has punk works within; it is a crime, but keeps the time, the while I toil and spin. My duds are ready made; I see the colors fade; but still I spring a smile and sing—the clothier has been paid. On liverwurst I dine, and I am feeling fine; the goods you see belong to me, and they are truly mine. No creditor appears with caustic taunts and sneers, to get his plunk or have my junk sold by the auctioneers. No sheriff comes with writs to scare me into fits; no bailiffs wait around my gate to bone me for six bits. I'll have a limousine some day, and mansion green; some day I'll shine in raiment fine, a silk hat on my bean. Some day I'll have a clock that none will dare to mock; some day I'll eat such costly meat 'twill make the neighbors talk. But I won't cut this ice until I have the price; and so in brine these coins of mine I pickle once or twice.

Ants Are Threatening Destruction To Homes

CLINTON, Ill., Aug. 11—Millions of white ants are threatening the destruction of many houses here.
Professor J. W. Finley, of the biological department of the University of Illinois, superintended the applications of poisonous chemicals to exterminate the ants. The termites have been killed in several houses, but another concerted attack by the powerful ants will be repelled by more doses of poison.
The homes of C. T. Sprague and C. F. Weld were overrun by the insects. Weld's fine new house was almost alive with the insects. Even oak floors as well as softer wood were honeycombed by the pests.

Lightest of Liquids

Many experiments here and abroad have shown that liquid hydrogen is by far the lightest of all known liquids. Its density is one-fourteenth that of water, and curiously enough, this happens to be the same ratio of density that hydrogen in the gaseous state bears to air. For long the lightest liquid known was liquefied marsh gas, which possesses about two-fifths of the density of water.

Parisians Ridicule American Scientists

PARIS, Aug. 11—Parisian men of letters and of science are poking fun at the report that American astronomers are going to try to build a telescope that will reveal the secrets of Mars.
"Let's not let ourselves be buffaloed with what seems big," said, in effect, an observatory astronomer reporter for Bonsoir. "These giant telescopes have not been and never will be productive of fantastic results."
"For purposes of studying life on Mars an opera glass is as good as the best telescope. And, anyway, no true astronomer is interested in whether there is life on Mars or not. We are absorbed in studying the laws of gravitation, which is a problem of equations, not of observation."
A paragrapher demanded if the placement of the proposed telescope in a well were symbolical of the true Americans' attempt to find truth, so far as it concerns the planet.

FRENCH POLITICAL LEADERS WATCH KEENLY FOR A BREAK IN THE GERMAN FEDERATION

Thread That Holds Ba- varia Under The Do- mination Of Germany May Break

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The slender thread which still holds Bavaria to the rest of the German federation is being watched with the keenest interest by French political leaders. If Bavaria breaks away from Germany the French policy inaugurated by Clemenceau at the time of the Versailles negotiations will harvest a tremendous victory.

The policy of "divided rule" of Balkanizing Germany, that is, breaking the country up into a lot of little states which will spend their energies on disagreements with one another, also the policy of some of the militarists and of the Clemenceuxs cannot be taken as representing the whole of the French nation.

Nevertheless, it is agreed if Germany should break up it would be of tremendous political advantage to France. France as a whole is quite convinced that the debts to England and America will never be paid, and is equally convinced that the reparations bill owed by Germany will never be paid in full. If Germany breaks up Clemenceau's demand of the Rhineland will be fulfilled, if not politically at least in an economic union with France.

French Press Interested

At regular intervals the French press comes out with a little reminder of France's intense interest in the Rhineland. One week it is the Excelsior with a long tabulation of the financial and economic condition of the Rhineland. The Journal quotes a Coblenz newspaper as saying: "German opinion in the Rhineland is evidently much less hostile to the separatist movement and it is hoped that Great Britain will join France in a plebiscite to be held this fall on the question of autonomy."

Students of history will remember that all of Napoleon's annexations were done by means of a plebiscite, which never failed to come out the way he wanted it. It was General Mall Craig, chief of staff of the United States forces in Germany, who prevented the separatist movement from attaining its goal two years ago.

The chief of staff of the French forces telephoned to General Craig at two o'clock one morning and announced that Mr. Dorten was going to declare the Rhineland independent the following day. He begged General Craig not to interfere, even if he wouldn't promise to support it. Gen. Craig said that the Americans were in Coblenz to preserve order, and that they would put down any uprising, no matter from which direction it came.

Dorten Going Strong

But to quote the Journal Dorten is going strong and if given a chance will put across his independent Rhineland. If Bavaria with her monarchistic inclinations breaks away from Prussia, which is pink, to say the least, if not a deep crimson red in spots, France will immediately take "guarantees." That the Ruhr is one of these, despite the opposition of the British coal barons, backed by the British Foreign Office, need not be mentioned. But the Rhineland will also be given a chance to declare its independence.

The French have not forgotten that it was the Franco-Prussian War which enabled Bismarck to take the German States which had been wasting their energies fighting among themselves and welding them together, turn them as a united whole against France. If the pre-1870 conditions can be restored the bugaboo of another German war is not only killed, but France becomes a relatively much more important figure in European politics and can be assured of again playing the dominant role which she played for so many decades and which she feels is hers by right of tradition and of her more ancient culture.

Wounded Negro Held For Police As A Burglar

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—When a burglar tried to force a screen at his window early Saturday morning, Edward H. Berghall slipped a revolver from under his pillow and fired three shots at the man. Then he ran to the window, gun in hand, but the burglar had disappeared.

Later Peter Whiteman, negro, who gave his home as Winchester, Ky., was found a block from the scene of the shooting with a bullet wound in his chest. He said he had been robbed and shot by a negro and a white man while he was returning from a crap game. It was learned he had reported being robbed earlier in the night and had left the police station with one cent in his possession.

He is in a serious condition at the city hospital where he is held for the police.

Grain Is Lower

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—All grains futures except September corn made new low prices on the crop of the season at today's session. General selling encouraged by further weakness in prices abroad. September corn showed some steadiness early because of buying by shorts. Other futures, however, touched new low levels for the crop. Oats futures weakened with the other grains and went down to new lows. Provision trade was extremely dull. Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 lower; corn closed unchanged to 1/4 lower; oats closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

ALLIED INDEMNITY PARLEY LIVES, BUT IN WEAK CONDITION

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Hope that Great Britain and France would reconcile their differences and reach an agreement upon German indemnity was strengthened this afternoon. The air had cleared and there were indications that progress was being made towards a compromise by which Germany would get a modified moratorium. Both the British and French were said to be making concessions.

"The conference still lives, but it is barely alive," said the official British spokesman after the morning meeting of Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and Premier Theunis of Belgium.

The premiers decided to meet again this afternoon. Premier Lloyd George is using all his famous persuasive powers to secure French support for the British proposals providing for reduced indemnity, a reparations moratorium and stricter supervision of German finances.

Asks Commission For Settlement Of U. S. War Claims that a friendly re-organization of German finance is possible.

"If France on the other hand were to march an army to Berlin, and to collect the pound of flesh by force, it is quite possible that this might alienate Russia, Italy and even possibly England with Germany and bring about another war. This, of course, would be an undesirable situation from every point of view. Such action would undoubtedly cause a panic in our stock markets, and would seriously embarrass our big banks. It would upset business generally. We would not even experience the business boom that we had at the beginning of the last European war. The new gases and chemical weapons of warfare developed since 1918 can be made just as well in Europe as over here.

"If, however, Germany has a friendly re-organization of her finance it could mean much and boom American business. Such a re-organization would clear the air and overcome the fear of repudiation which keeps all our foreign transactions in a muddle. It would do away with the uncertainty of the situation and if arranged to the mutual satisfaction of all parties concerned it would give the whole world the confidence it needs at this particular time. It would strengthen business everywhere. The greatest part of the benefit would be felt in America. I certainly hope that this will be the outcome.

"In the meantime," concludes Mr. Babson, "we must remember one thing more, there is a distinct difference between Germany's government and finances and the finances of German firms and corporations. The credit of Germany's government is almost all because of the tons of paper marks which it is obliged to redeem. The banks are also in a rather uncertain position because their cash assets are of very uncertain value. The private firms of Germany, however, hold real property, factories, machinery, land, equipment and merchandise. Most of them are in a sound condition because these things are of actual and permanent value. The re-organization of Germany's finance would upset the German government's financial bureau and might call for considerable readjustment in Germany's banking circles. It need have little effect on the real credit of private firms.

General business is maintaining its recent improvement in spite of unfavorable sentiment created by coal and rail strikes. The index of the Babsonchart shows that business is but 9 per cent below normal. No change since last week.

Bombers Busy

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Aug. 11.—Facing the greatest crisis of the railroad strike, federal and local officers here today spread a huge dragnet for mystery bombers who early today hurled twenty-three deadly missiles at the Santa Fe yards, terrorizing the district for miles around.

Only one man was hurt. Deputy Marshal Alverson being severely burned when a "dud" found at the scene of the blasts, exploded as it was being taken in an automobile to a chemist for analysis.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 12.—An old man, hoary of head yet clear of eye and clean and healthful of complexion despite his ninety-one years, is headed eastward on his twenty-second trip across the United States. He is Ezra Meeker, pioneer, lecturer, historian, who has spent seventy years of his life in the Pacific Northwest.

The old emigrant became nationally noted fifteen years ago when, in his seventy-sixth year, he completed his third trip across country by ox-team, arriving in New York City late in 1907.

To date Ezra Meeker has made seventeen transcontinental trips by train, three by ox-team and one by automobile. On his present journey he is traveling by automobile and train. His mission is to gather data preparatory to the production of a moving picture historical serial to be known as "The Winning of the Farther West."

"My purpose in preparing for this serial," said Meeker, "is to illustrate the Oregon Trail as I found it seventy years ago and as I find it now. There will be no element of fiction in it. It will be all historical and will commemorate the trail and old pioneers such as Governor Peter Burnett, of California; Senator James Nesmith, of Oregon; Senator Levi Ackney, of Washington, and Governor Isaac I. Stevens, of Washington Territory.

"I plan to appear before the Senate Military Committee in Washington in behalf of Senator Jones' bill to provide for the establishment of the old Oregon Trail as a military highway." (Residents of Coshocton who formerly lived at Zanesville well remember Mr. Meeker with his old-time prairie schooner and ox-team as he spent several days there on Fourth-st near Main, relating his experiences along the old National trail which passes through Zanesville.)

PALESTINE PROVIDES

casion arises. Here are some of the main factors in the situation:

1. Following a most determined struggle in London between Arab and Zionist representatives, in which important political leaders of the empire have taken sides, the British government has announced a modification of its standpoint towards the establishment of a Jewish state. It declares the Holy Land is not to be Jewish "as England is English," thus putting an end to the fervent dream of the Zionists that they were to be able to colonize the country and finally rule it. As a result Zionists all over the world are taking up cudgels in a campaign to prove to England that she must continue to favor the Jews or suffer political, financial and commercial reprisals.

2. The Arab delegation, altho it partially defeated the Zionists, has gone home dissatisfied because the British have stood behind certain plans for Jewish exploitation of the land. Renewed agitation has set in thru all the Arab territories for action to force the British to recognize "war time pledges" that the Arabs should be restored to control of their own "home land." This agitation is again spreading hostility against British among the Mohammedans.

3. France, which constantly uses British troubles in the Near East as a means of compelling London's compliance with her plans to throttle Germany, is undoubtedly intrigued with the dissatisfied Arabs as she is intrigued with the Turks. It is freely charged by those who know of conditions in the Arab territories that much of the surplus French war munitions is going into Mesopotamia and Arabia thru the French sphere around Damascus.

4. British balked by Vatican efforts to bring Italy to her side in an attempt to restrain French plans for domination of the European continent, have been balked by the opposition of the Catholic church to British policies in Palestine and elsewhere in the Near East. The Vatican has taken a strong position against control of the holy places by either Jews or Protestants; and no Italian ministry can long exist which will support Britain so long as she maintains her present position.

5. Lacking the help of Italy, Britain is unable to bring upon France the pressure necessary to compel her to make some arrangement for united action in the Near East. As a result France continues to stir up trouble and the Greeks and Turks are getting out of hand once more and their hostile moves are stirring up the whole mass of emirates around the Black Sea.

6. Powerful American oil and other interests are looking to Palestine and other parts of old Turkey for valuable concessions. Since Britain and France have now recognized that Americans must have equal rights under the mandate system, these interests are pressing their efforts and are bound to bring Washington diplomacy even further into play in that section. While it is only just that we should have our part in the trade and natural wealth of the Near East, it is nevertheless true that our entrance activity into the field will add to the confusion. Each of the warring elements will try to enlist us on its side.

High Hopes of the Jews
The promise of "a Jewish national home" in Palestine was one of the propaganda measures taken by the British during the World War. It was made in the Balfour declaration in very guarded language, but it was proclaimed all thru Central Europe as a policy of effect Zion, and it had a tremendous effect in breaking down the mystery of the Jews in Germany.

Austria and elsewhere in the Germanic alliance. In Britain and America the Zionists took it at its broadest value; and the Zionist conference of 1920 voted a resolution that all the land in Palestine be declared the property of the Jewish people and that the control of this property should be gradually assumed by the Palestine state. Tremendous efforts have been made to raise capital to purchase the land.

When the mandate to Britain was finally drawn up in February, 1921, it did not go so far as the Zionists had hoped, but it again pledged the London government to "use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement" of "a national home for the Jewish people" in Palestine; and it conferred on "an appropriate Jewish agency" (the Zionist organization being named) recognition "as the public body for advising and for operating with the administration in such economic, social and other matters as may affect the establishment of a Jewish national home" and "to assist and take part in the development of the country."

Zionists Find Many Troubles
At the beginning of the British administration the idea thus set forth was carried out under Sir Herbert Samuel, the high commissioner, who is a friend of the Zionists. The Zionist commission on the spot was given large authority in the government, was able to purchase land, to take care of the Jewish immigrants by giving many jobs on public works and otherwise to facilitate the colonization of the "home land."

But troubles have steadily developed. The war left conditions in Palestine much disorganized and disturbed. Old markets for products had vanished. There was much unemployment; and still is. When a steady stream of Jews came in and they were preferred in employment to the natives—with bonuses added from Zionist funds to make their wages higher than the prevailing rate and other bonuses to workers of the land—the Arabs became greatly dissatisfied on economic grounds. With such grievances to build on it was easy for the Arab agitators to stir up race and religious prejudice, especially among a very superstitious population.

As a result the Jews, numbering less than ten per cent of the population, have been subjected to steady persecution, which even the power of the Zionists and the government has not been able to stop. In many cases there have been open riots, but these have not been a tenth so serious as the hostilities of daily life that have been visited not only on the Jewish immigrants but on the old residents of that race.

The Zionists have been greatly disappointed also in the type of Jews who have taken advantage of the opportunity to build up a "home-land." It had been their hope that many of the race who had had experiences with democratic England and America would emigrate to Palestine and take up the task of building a modern free state. They have been able to induce few of such people to go. Most of their recruits have come from Russia and other distressed countries. Long subjected to oppression, a large proportion of them have been Socialistic and Communist and have insisted on carrying out their ideas in establishing a government. They have also shocked the Arabs with their iconoclastic views.

A large portion of them have been refugees from the Pale of Russia or from the ghettos, who know various trades but have had little experience in farming, whereas colonization and cultivation of the land was the essential cornerstone of the erection of the Jewish state.

Arabs Demand Real Power
It is not only the ignorant Arabs who have been restive under the Jewish plans, but the very intelligent leaders have been making a campaign which the British have found difficult to meet. The London government during the war gave pledges to the Arabs as well as to the Jews. These people, whose ancestors led the great Mohammedan movement, developed a very strong national consciousness when Turkey took the side of Germany; and this consciousness was astutely used by the British to get Arab aid in defeating the Turks. In the critical days of the spring of 1918 it was the Arabs who held the country east of the Jordan and prevented reinforcements from reaching the Turks facing Allenby in Palestine. They also cut off the retreat of the Turks and enabled Allenby to annihilate the foe.

The Arabs declare that in recognition of these services they were promised possession of their own "home-land" and that this pledge included control of Palestine under British suzerainty.

In their negotiations with the London government they demanded that a real parliament should be set up, elected by the voters resident in the country before the war. They insisted that this parliament should have control over the franchise, immigration, land and taxation questions and that all acts of the British administration should be submitted to it for ratification. These demands the British have refused, only conceding that in the establishment of "a national Jewish home" the rights of the Arabs must be safeguarded.

This concession has not in the least satisfied the Arabs. They are backed in their position by Faisal, king of Iraq (Mesopotamia), on whose friend

No more Rheumatism

Suffering has gone from your face, mother!

FATHER knew too well that rheumatism is the most common cause of heart disease. It was then too late to experiment! He gave mother S. S. S. and stopped her suffering.

S. S. S. clears the body of rheumatic impurities. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing. What can be more wonderful, than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body? You can do it. Use S. S. S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities. It is sold at all drug stores.

S. S. S. makes you feel like yourself again ship Britain depends for the security of that country. There is now danger that he will turn into an active enemy. To Dr. Weizman, the Zionist leader in Palestine, he once gave this warning: "Only if the Arab claims are fulfilled will quiet and order reign in the East and peace and harmony prevail between the Jews and the Arabs. Otherwise, if the Arabs do not receive what they consider they are rightly entitled to in the way of independence and national freedom the Zionists will be unable to retain their peace."

To the British he gave this warning: "We Arabs are a vindictive race. We are true and faithful to our friends. But when the Arabs discover their friend has been disloyal to them they must revenge themselves."

Position of the Catholics
Such a racial antagonism, threatening to flare up at any moment all thru the Arab territories, would be serious enough for Britain in her present straitened circumstances and with her home troubles. But the situation has far wider implications. The Arabs, more than the Turks, have an influence on all Mohammedan opinion; and they can make trouble in India, Persia, Afghanistan and Egypt.

Even more serious, however, is the clash with the Catholic power. The Vatican has made known, formally and informally, that it will not give its assent to the conditions of the mandate which the British have been trying to put thru the League of Nations council. It is insisted that Rome shall be fully recognized in the guardianship of the holy places; and grave clashes are certain before the matter is settled to the satisfaction of the Pope.

Already these differences have interfered seriously with the plans of the British government for the reorganization of Europe. An essential element in them is co-operation of Italy. If she should throw in her lot with Britain, France could be forced to take a more reasonable attitude toward Germany and various Central European problems. Ever since the war Lloyd George and his colleagues have been working for such an entente with Italy.

Have Overthrown Cabinets
They have means of bringing strong economic pressure to bear on the kingdom. Also it is Italy's interest that France shall cease to be the mistress of the continent and that Germany and Russia shall be put on their feet. Italian cabinets have endeavored to come into line with the British. But one after another has been overthrown just as it seemed that Lloyd George's plans were to succeed. In each case within the last two years a large factor in the fall of the cabinet has been the refusal of the strong Catholic party in parliament to support it. The recent crisis in Rome was due almost wholly to the inability of the followers of the king and Pope to agree on a foreign policy.

Thus the Vatican really has a veto on the foreign relations of Italy. It can be predicted with safety that the church will not consent to a close working arrangement between Rome and London unless Britain decides to give up a great deal it now has of lands and privileges in the Near East, especially in Palestine. Surgeon Revives A British "Dead" Man

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The recovery of a "dead" man during a remarkable brain operation is described by Sir William MacEwen, regius professor of surgery at Glasgow University.

The man was practically dead, according to MacEwen, having ceased to breathe before his admission to the hospital. But an operation was begun, nevertheless, artificial respiration being resorted to. No anaesthetic was used.

The trouble was a large abscess, and two ounces of pus had been removed, when natural breathing suddenly re-started. The staff, with white drawn faces from their arduous work, were still standing around the man they had drawn from the brink of the grave when he suddenly recovered consciousness and exclaimed: "What's all this damned fuss about?"

"It had a startling effect on the staff," comments MacEwen. "The unseeing eye which had been open all the time suddenly saw."

Michiganders Want Coal And They Want It Without More Ado

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 11.—Gov. Alex. J. Groesbeck was to meet John L. Lewis, president of United Mine Workers of America, in Cleveland, today to discuss arrangements for opening mines in the Saginaw valley under state control.

The governor also expects to meet with the governors of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia to enlist help for a concerted drive on the interstate commerce commission to open the coal gateways in the Ohio valley. This would release coal for Michigan and other states.

4 Men Are Drowned As Tug Overturns

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Four men of the seven members of the crew of the tug boat "Clarence Howland" are believed to have been drowned this morning when their vessel overturned at the Staten Island ship yards docks at the foot of Badine st., Port Richmond. The captain and two members of the crew were rescued by police of the marine division as they were trying to swim to shore.

In some manner a tow line caught under the bow of the little vessel as it was under way. Almost instantly it overturned and sank. Less than a minute after the bow rose in mid-air spectators saw nothing but a mad eddy of waters and three men fighting for shore.

It is believed that the four missing men were caught either in the vessel or else were thrown under it when it sought bottom.

THE SWAMP KIDNAPPER
 H. met Peggy. "I wish I were back at home. There's nothing to do. I'm dreadfully lonesome."

"The very idea!" laughed a merry voice, and Happy Giggles, Peggy's little friend from Joyland, jumped up beside her. "So you don't like the seashore. My, my, but you should! I don't mean that you don't like it," explained Peggy. "But I am so lonesome for my friends. Now that you're here I know I shall enjoy every second of it. Tell me, Happy Giggles, how did you happen to come here?"

"It's a secret," whispered the little elf. "Well, now that you're here, par-papa you can help me. It seems that the queen bee got out and is lost. Some of the hive saw her flying down near the marshes and no one has seen her since. They think maybe the kidnappers have captured her."

"Kidnappers?" exclaimed Peggy. "Why, I didn't know there were such wicked people around here."

"My goodness you don't mean to say that you've never seen them?" cried the elf. "Why, they swam along this coast are full of them. Oh, don't get excited, my dear, they're not the kind of kidnappers of whom you're thinking, but the sort that entice flies and insects into their palaces and then devour them."

"I Agree with You."

"The horrid creatures!" cried Peggy. "Let's go at once, Happy Giggles, and see if we can find the queen bee. They got her, didn't they? Oh, don't get cut to the sandy marshes."

There Happy Giggles pointed out a queer-looking plant with the funniest-looking leaves she had ever seen. Some of them lay out flat on the ground, their brittle-like hairs all sparkling with great drops of sticky fluid which looked very much like dewdrops.

"There's our friend!" laughed Happy Giggles. "That Mr. Sundew, one of the greatest kidnappers in this part of the country. See how some of the hairy leaves are curled up? Well, if you lay that leaf open you'd find some poor little insect imprisoned within its walls. Of course, it's a very good thing that these plants get rid of a great many harmful insects, but when it comes to catching bees, then I think they overstep their bounds."

"I agree with you," laughed a merry voice, and the keeper of the castle for Mr. Sundew hopped out to welcome Happy Giggles. "But you can't bank on me, if I see a bee even thinking of trying the dewdrops which hang on those leaves I make it my duty to warn her of her danger. There are plenty of bothersome insects to feed Mr. Sundew without imprisoning queen bees. The queen you're looking for has just started a new home over in yonder tree."

Happy Giggles and Peggy ran through the woods until they found the lost queen. She had grown tired of her other home and was building a new one. My, how she laughed when they told her they thought the swamp kidnapper had kidnapped her!

One of the most charming parties of the younger social set, was the Japanese tea, given by Miss Esther Carpenter and Miss Ruth Pious, Saturday afternoon, in the home of the former, 335 Hay-pl, as a compliment to Miss Elsie McKinley, fiancée of G. Gourley Gray.

Artistic Japanese decorations, together with tall baskets of pink gladioli and hydrangeas were used throughout the home and veranda. Suspended from the ceiling in the living room, were two gorgeous imported Japanese parasols, in dark blue, with white motifs, shading lights covered with red crepe paper. Vari-colored flowers in brilliant hues, hung from the edges. One similar arrangement was placed on the veranda, under which the guests were received. Smaller parasols, Japanese lanterns, incense burners and various Japanese antiques, in keeping with the scheme, were also used. Dainty Japanese prints made attractive covers for the tables, where Bridge was in play during the afternoon.

The guest prize presented Miss McKinley, was a set of blue breakfast cups, while a Japanese incense burner was given as the royal prize to the one holding the top score. Other favors of tiny silver parasols, in Japanese prints, were served with the delicious refreshments.

FAITHFUL DOG GUARDS IN LOVE WITH A SNAKE AND GUARDS LIFE OF REPTILE

SCOOBA, Miss., Aug. 12—Shep, a snake-killing dog, owned by James Edmonds, seventy-two, living several miles west of here, has fallen in love with a king snake and already has fought seven battles in her behalf. The fights were with other snakes, the poisonous kind, that seemed to enervate the protection the king had won. King snakes are splendid mousers and also kill other snakes. That's why Edmonds, when he found the king in his smokehouse, decided to keep and train it righteously. At first Shep couldn't see it that way. He wanted to put an end to the king. But patient Edmonds taught Shep that life isn't all murder—that some time or other, there ought to be a little love.

And so now, when the king creeps out of the smokehouse during warm weather to lie under one of the Edmonds fig trees, Shep hears the voice of the siren and barks his pleasure because she lives.

Also friendly to the king is Jock, a large hound, but Jock, while apparently enjoying the king's company, won't fight for her as Shep does.

DUBLIN, Aug. 11—A vigorous offensive was begun today by General Daly's Free State army against the Republican irregulars in county Kerry. The Free Staters hope to relieve the situation at Waterville and Valentia, where the irregulars seized and wrecked cable stations crippling communication between the United States and Northern Europe. Heavy fighting is reported from the region of Cork.

Divorce Denied Woman When Insanity Charged

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 11—No matter how cruel a husband or wife may be, if the offending spouse is insane, divorce cannot be obtained in Georgia. Thus, in effect, was the ruling of Judge W. D. Ellis in Superior Court today in proceedings brought by Mrs. S. A. Moody, who sued W. W. Moody for divorce alleging that while insane he had brutalized her.

Judge Ellis sustained a demurrer to the petition on the ground that if it charged Moody was insane at the time of the marriage, it was impossible of compliance by an insane person.

Moody will be appealed to the supreme court.

MOONSHINE QUALITY IS GETTING BETTER DRY AGENT ASSERTS

Imported Liquor Abominable, Says Federal Enforcement Man in Portland District

By H. T. HOPKINS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12—If you are going to drink bootleg whiskey, it is better to get it from the outside of the moonshiner's product rather than consume the contents of the imported bottle.

This advice comes from no less an authority than Jesse Flanders, federal prohibition enforcement officer for the Portland district.

That moonshining is rapidly becoming an important industry in this state was admitted by the federal official. He also admitted that the quality of moonshine liquor is growing better and that the possibilities of paralysis, blindness or instant death, due to drinking moonshine, are decreasing.

A fair grade of "mountain dew" is now dripping from the illicit still, compared to the poisonous liquid that was manufactured two years ago, Flanders said.

"We find that moonshiners are learning more about their business," declared the prohibition enforcement officer. "Chemical tests show that the poisonous liquors of a few years ago are disappearing, and a better grade of moonshine is being produced."

Imported Liquor Rotten

"But while moonshine is getting better the quality of imported liquor is growing more abominable. The man who buys Scotch whiskey is taking a big chance with his money. Most of the liquor that is being smuggled into Oregon is made in Scotch distilleries and then shipped to Japan. There it is adulterated, doped and doctored. One bottle of genuine liquor is made the base for about four bottles of inferior stuff. It then is shipped to Canada, sold to American rum-runners and smuggled into this country. No matter how many labels, revenue stamps and embossed corks a bottle bears the buyer cannot tell until he opens it just what sort of concoction the bottle holds."

"Our investigations show that the making of wine, beer and whiskey by private citizens for their own consumption is gradually dying out. It was only a fad, and people, after experimenting, have found out that as amateurs they are not able to make a beverage that is fit to drink. Homebrewing is simply a fad that is about to disappear."

"There is only one thing that is going to stop the manufacture and sale of liquor in this country—that is a constant, bitter and relentless war on those who engage in that traffic."

CHAMPIONS PLAY FOR DAVIS CUP TODAY IN SEMI-FINAL DOUBLES

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—It is do or die, sink or swim, survive or perish, or something like that for both France and Australia today when the doubles match in the semi-final round of the Davis cup series placed on the Longwood courts.

The winner of this match is almost certain to go thru to the final round again in Philadelphia next week. With honors a stand-off, as the result of yesterday's singles matches in which Gerald Patterson, of Australia, defeated Andre Gobert, of France, only to have Honey Cochet, even the score by disposing of Pat O'Hara Wood, the doubles have taken on the significance of a climax.

If Gobert and Cochet cannot turn back the Australian pair today, they will have just about concluded their fight, for the twenty-year-old Cochet hardly figures to beat Patterson in one of the singles tomorrow. Thus Australia would have the old victory to its credit. Likewise if Patterson and O'Hara Wood, fail today, it is equally probable they would fail tomorrow, for Gobert, even with his lack of stamina, is a better singles player than O'Hara Wood, whom he is scheduled to meet on the final day.

BRITONS ARE ADVISED TO SEEK YANK MONEY

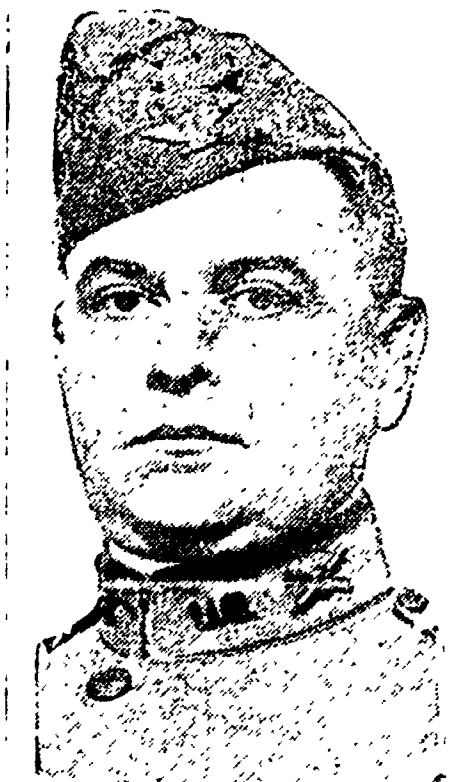

(By International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 12—American gold bonds are a wartime English exploitation, according to a figurative statement made by Sir Charles Higham, English advertising expert, who has just returned from America.

"People in England do not realize the amount of money there is in America ready to be invested in British industrial groups," Sir Charles says. "All that is needed to induce them to invest is a sound economic policy allied to systematic advertising."

No Funeral Rites For Bull, Killed by Farmer

MCARTHUR, O., Aug. 11—Two Brown township farmers got into a scrap because a bull, owned by one of them, was continually breaking into the other farmer's field. Finally the trespasser was shot to death. At last reports the animal's remains lay unburied because the two men could not agree as to who should officiate at the "planting."

PRICE WAR STARTED BY ENGLISH WOMEN

Continued High Prices Of Food Rile Wives Of Men Whose Wages Were Nipped

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The latest war to threaten the British Isles is that between the housewife and the allied forces of the grocer and the butcher. Everywhere in England the tendency has been during the last few months to cut the wages, but the cut in the price of the necessities of life has not been commensurate with the drop in the salary packets.

Hubby struck when they attacked his wages and lost. Wife now strikes when the grocer charges the extra cents on the flour and sugar and the butcher for his increased rates on the viands, and again hubby loses, he has got to go without.

Many commodities are dearer considerably than they were in the spring. In all the cost of living has gone up ten points. The following table shows the percentage above normal in the cost of living since 1921:

September	120
October	119
November	100
December	95

1922
January	85
February	79
March	77
April	75
May	72
June	70
July	80

The best lamb costs thirty cents a pound, while a pound of the best English beef now costs fifty cents. Butter reaches the highest mark it has made since September, 1921, and fifty cents the pound is the lowest price at which it can be had.

Bread and fruit are higher and the latter rarer than usual. Bananas are four cents apiece, tomatoes are twenty-five cents a pound, eggs thirty-six cents a dozen, milk twenty-four cents a quart, apples twenty cents a pound, while the baker charges twenty cents for a quarter loaf.

All being a 10 per cent increase and yet ironically enough the wages have all been cut and the reason given is a drop in the cost of living.

FUEL SHORTAGE MAY TIE UP ROAD WORK

COLUMBUS, Aug. 12—Federal relief, in the fuel shortage now threatening to tie up road improvement operations of the state highway department is considered a possibility by officials here, following request, made to state highway department for data concerning the road building situation in Ohio.

The request was made by officials of the National Motorists Association who are conducting a nation-wide survey, to be submitted to the interstate commerce commission on the road building situation. Chairman McCord of the interstate commerce commission declared that this data will be used in an effort to afford all possible relief.

RAIL EXECUTIVE IS RUFFLED; SAYS HIS JOB'S INTOLERABLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—President W. G. Bierd, of the Chicago & Alton Railroad in a signed statement to be published in the Railway Review, declared today that the railroads are now fighting with their backs to the wall against intolerable conditions and that he will quit as president of the road rather than submit to these conditions. In his statement he also takes a slap at the "peace at any price" policy of the United States Railway labor board as he considers its action.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS
Revelations of a Wife

The Way Madge and Lillian "Turned to" to Aid Katie.

KATIE'S explanation only increased my bewilderment. For a second or two I stared helplessly at her highly-colored and black-besmeared face, wondering how I was to get her in shape to come downstairs as Lillian had requested. I knew that I had never would not drag Katie where Allen Drake could see her face in its present ludicrous plight.

"Practicing exercises so you could go in the movies," I repeated mechanically. "What do you mean?" No, I interrupted myself briskly as a remembrance of Lillian waiting came to me, "You'll have to tell me about it some other time. Just now you're needed in something more exciting than any movie. Have you tried to get this stuff off your face?" "Not you say, tried? Have I tried?" Katie's voice rose hysterically. "I wash it with two kinds of soap, and get only get worse. Look at that towel!"

Katie's Dilemma.

I gazed at an impressionistic display in carmine and black on the back of Katie's shiny face, looking as if a good coat of varnish had been spread over the smeared. I remembered having heard that water only "set" paint more firmly, then with a swift decision born of the necessity for haste, I turned to the door. "I will call Mrs. Underwood," I said with decision. "She will know what to do. I am sure."

Katie giggled relievedly. She is always happy when she has succeeded in casting her woes upon broader shoulders.

"Meeks Underwood, she sure ought to know," she remarked reflectively. "She always used to put wagon load dirt stuff on her own face."

I opened my mouth to reprove her impertinence, but closed it again with the judicious reflection that if I wished Katie to be of use, I Lillian I must be careful not to upset her.

"Don't touch your face until I come back," I admonished.

"You bet your boots I no touch," Katie replied with heartfelt emphasis. "My face, get it like you new potato ven you rub skin off, only get redder." She surveyed herself in the mirror with a critical air which made me bolt from the room.

I heard Lillian's voice in the library, mingled with Tom Chester's deep but boyish tones. I knew there was no time for any exchange of even the perfunctory greetings of a hostess and guest, so I knocked lightly upon the door and kept out of sight when Lillian answered my summons.

"All Right—Here Goes!"

"Please come upstairs to Katie's room at once," I whispered. Then I turned and sped back through the kitchen to the foot of the stairway leading to my little maid's room, where I halted for the few seconds which Lillian, after making a hurried excuse to young Mr. Chester, needed to catch up with me.

"Wait," I barred her ascent of the stairs with a gesture. "Perhaps I can save time by telling you the trouble first. Katie informs me that she has been practicing to go into the movies, and her face is smeared with red and blue paint."

THREE GIRLS IN ONE?

By Juanita Hamel

Is there a girl anywhere who is not a tantalizing, dainty, glorious and sometimes heart-breaking mystery to at least one man? When he expects a face of sunshine, she turns upon him eyes which rain tears.

When he fears a storm, she laughs. And when he expects— But, what's the use? She, herself, before her own mirror may ask the same question that puzzles HIM, even while it lures him to love her all the more.

"Find the lard for me," she said. "I'll hunt up a dish, and I want some clean soft rags."

It was but a few seconds before, armed with the implements she wished, we started for Katie's room, finding my little maid seated on a chair, her hands planted firmly on her knees, evidently engaged in rigidly obeying my injunction not to touch her face.

"Sit perfectly still, Katie, and close your eyes," Lillian commanded. "I'm not going to hurt you, but you don't want to risk getting any of this stuff in your eyes. Madge, draw her hair tightly back from her face and twist it into a tight knot on the top of her head, so that every strand is out of the way. Turn down the neck of her kimono so that I won't grease it. There, that's right! Now, if you'll just get the cold-cream bottles from your room and mine, we'll need them both—a box of rice powder. All right, Katie, here goes."

She had rolled up her own sleeves, and had planned an apron of Katie's over her gown as she spoke. As I left the room I heard her say to the girl, "Lard, lard, and smear the girl's face with it. By the time I had returned with the cold cream and powder Katie's cheeks were glistening with grease, but the red and blue paint, even as she stooped forward and she looked like a human being again."

drawers, and make wonderfully quaint-looking dressing-tables. Most of the cases have two or four drawers, and the mirror, round, square or oval, works on a swivel. As the cases are used as a music cabinet, a long mirror had been attached to the back, which reflected the marble busts of two prominent composers. The drawers of another highboy had been made into drop fronts with elaborate hinges added. It was topped with a tall looking-glass of its period, and thus constructed, it was the principal piece of furniture in a man's dressing-room.

There is a wonderful old Spanish carved altar chair with kneeling-bench and book-rack in a very modern library. Velvet cushions adorn the chair and kneeling-bench, and an expensively-bound volume of Poe's "Barnes" is usually open on the Bible rack. Evidently captured on the same antique hunting trip, a charming old triptych from which the holy pictures have been removed is near-by. Photographs of the son and heir of the family at various periods of his life have been substituted for the holy pictures. One cannot help wondering whether the chair and triptych had over their sad transformation in the dead of night, and whether they feel young and foolish in such modern surroundings.

A clever woman had an old-fashioned hat-stand with a settee base out in two pieces. The settee, with an umbrella stand at either end, was placed near the front door, while the upper part, with a mirror and six hat-pegs, was placed above, over a long, narrow table, which held a handsome pottery jar and a hampered silver card-tray. Of course, the pieces were all done over, and they looked far more interesting divided than they had when combined.

YOUR HEALTH

What You Should Do for Intestinal Obstruction

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

WHEN any part of the body fails to function there is trouble. If that failure is found in one of the avenues of waste escape, it proves serious immediately.

Intestinal obstruction is an alarming condition. It is ushered in by a sudden attack of severe pain in the abdomen. There usually is a history of constipation or of failure of bowel movement. Nausea, vomiting of substance having a fecal odor, and distention of the abdomen soon follow. Unless relief is immediate, prostration and collapse will come.

There are many causes for intestinal obstruction. It is more likely to occur in a person who has had some sort of abdominal operation.

You will recall that the intestine is attached to a sheet of tissue called the "mesentery" and the intestinal mass is covered by an apron of tissue called the "omentum." During an operation involving the interior of the abdomen, it is very easy to tear or to cut the mesentery or omentum, leaving open slits. A part of the intestine may slip through one of these openings and be squeezed by the movement of the sheet of tissue. The pinching may be so severe as to cut off the passage and cause complete obstruction.

After operation, too, there may be bands of scar tissue and adhesions surrounding the intestine which by their contraction, cut off the passage. Tumors may form and by sudden change of position obstruct the intestinal passage. Sometimes, for other reasons difficult to determine, knots and twists may form and thus cause intestinal obstruction. Twisting of the bowel is more common in men of middle life.

Paralysis of the intestinal tissues is one of the rare things which may cause collapse of the intestine and obstruction. Foreign bodies are another of the many causes for interference with the escape of fecal matter. The seriousness of such cases depends on the size and nature of the foreign substance and upon the permanence of its lodgment in the bowel.

The pain is so acute and the suffering so intense that you may be called upon to do something until the doctor arrives. All food should be forbidden and hot-water compresses should be applied to the abdomen. Purgatives are harmful and should be avoided. For the throat, give pieces of ice to dissolve in the mouth.

If collapse has taken place, the patient should be put to bed and kept warm. Hot-water bottles should be packed around him, taking great care not to burn him.

There is a difference of opinion about the value of rectal injections and colonic irrigation. I have seen some cases which seemed to be benefited by their use. The victim lies on his back and the water is permitted to flow very slowly.

Get the doctor as soon as possible and do not overdo your own treatment pending his arrival.

Answers to Health Questions

E. D. R. Q.—Can you tell me what is the cause of hives and what is the cure?

A.—Hives are caused by food poisoning or nerves. I would suggest that you watch your diet to see which food or foods aggravate the condition and avoid them. Bathe the parts with a solution of hyposulphite of soda. One tablespoonful to one quart of water. If there is no improvement, get to a good doctor for sensitization tests.

A. H. B. Q.—Please tell me how to prevent my hair from turning gray.

A.—It is impossible to stop the hair from turning gray.

J. M. K. Q.—I am a young man 21 years old and am 5 feet 3 inches tall. What should my correct weight be?

A.—I smoke one or two cigarettes a day, but after smoking I get a headache and become dizzy. What causes this and what would you advise me to do?

A.—For your age and height, you should weigh between 125 and 132 pounds. Weight is entirely a matter of individuality.

2.—Good sense suggests that you stop smoking, as it does not agree with you.

J. A. P. Q.—I am a young man 18 years of age, weigh 160 pounds, have 6 feet 2 inches. Kindly advise what my proper weight should be.

2.—How many hours sleep should a person of my age have during the night?

A.—For your age and height, you should weigh about 165 pounds.

2.—You should have at least eight hours' sleep every night.

V. R. Q.—I have had a headache every day for over two years, accompanied by dizzy spells. What is the cause of this and how can I stop it?

A.—Headaches are caused by constipation, eyestrain, sinus disease, kidney trouble and high blood-pressure. You should consult a doctor, who, after thorough examination to locate the cause of your trouble, will be able to prescribe the necessary treatment.

How Some Antiques Have Been Turned to Modern Uses.

THE lure of collecting antiques, when once experienced, often inspires one with the desire to study the whole subject carefully before buying old things, or else it drives one to the extravagant purchase of articles that are neither genuine nor valuable.

Owners of country homes with big, old-fashioned, open fireplaces, are indulging the fad for antique chimney cooking utensils when they are fortunate enough to find them. These utensils include heart-shaped bellows, which are a powerful aid to a lazy fire, the long, two-tined arch-rake, designed originally to rescue potatoes baked in hot ashes, the long-handled roasting fork, the up-right broiler with a drip cup to catch the juices of the meat, the open-faced oven which was also used as a dish-warmer, and an array of copper sauce-pans with long handles. There is also a teakettle to hang on the crane, and pots to hang on the iron arm and bowl in accompaniment to the kettle's song. Of course, settles are placed on each side of the fireplace, and old-fashioned crickets or four-legged stools to rest the feet on conveniently near.

One man found in his travels an old, long-handled contribution box and had it cleverly fitted with a little carved-wood clock that filled in the space. When polished and hung, the box was quite a thing of beauty.

There is always a search for old, carved Bible boxes, which are refitted elaborately for jewel or silver cases. When done over with new and appropriate hardware these boxes are attractive and unusual, as nothing like them is to be had in modern shops.

The popularity of the old dressing or shaving cases and the exorbitant prices paid for them when found have tempted modern cabinet-makers to copy them in model and design and "age" them by means of a few wood blemishes and wormholes thrown in for luck. These cases are pleasing to the eye, but they lack the olden charm of the original wood, with one wide or two narrow

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Spite Fences

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THE woman down the street is building a spite fence.

She's had a quarrel with her neighbor and the neighbor got the better of the argument, so the woman is building a high fence to spoil the view from the brand-new dining-room of her neighbor.

And she's going to paint it a hideous staring blue—that's because the neighbor's dining-room is done in soft green and the fence will take all the color out of the green and make it look faded and characterless.

And she's awfully pleased about it—the woman down the street. She laughs every time she thinks of it—such a mean, spiteful, triumphant little laugh—I hate to hear it!

Poor thing, what a lot of miserable hours she is building for herself—the woman down the street. The spite fence won't hurt a thing of the neighbor's except the view.

But it will build a fence of hatred and envy and spite between the woman down the street and everything that is beautiful and serene and joyous in life.

She's building a spite fence in her own mind—poor thing! And when she gets ready to tear it down, she'll find that she will have to tear a part of her own heart out with it.

I know a woman who has a spite fence built in her heart against every other woman who is young and pretty, or attractive in any way.

If you're old or ugly or unattractive, if you're cross-eyed or stoop-shouldered or freckled-faced, this particular woman will be perfectly charming to you. There is nothing she can do that will be too much trouble. She will give you presents and call you pet names and invite you to luncheon, dinner and tea—but, get your eyes straightened, clear your skin, fall heir to some money and some becoming new gowns—farewell, my fancy!

The woman with the spite fence will begin to hate you. And she's young and pretty and attractive herself, too—you'd think

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl of 20. I have gone with many young men, but it seems that I tire of them so quickly. I will consent to go with one steady, but after two or three dates I can't stand him. Will you please tell me how to overcome this? A CO-ED.

A CO-ED: You are foolish to promise a young man to have him for a friend to the exclusion of all others, my dear. You are too young, and even were you older an engagement would be the only thing to make it proper to have but one friend. Wait until you are older and able to know your own mind.

Don't make any more promises until you meet the right man and love him enough to promise him to be his wife. This is the best plan for you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl of 15 years of age, and am in love with a young man of 22. We are very deeply in love. I love him better than any other person in the world. We have always gotten along well together. He has asked me to be his wife. Of course, I would like very much to be his wife, but my parents, I am afraid, would object to my marrying him. He is a very nice young man, and I don't see why they should have any objection.

Would you please advise me as I am young and do not know what to do? BUTTERFLY.

BUTTERFLY: Tell your mother. Everything, my dear. When she sees that you are truly in love, and that the young man is worthy, perhaps she will not object to your marrying him. If not right away, perhaps some day. Don't deceive your parents in any way.

She Describes the Newest Gown for Theatre and Restaurant Wear.

THERE'S no satisfaction like having a smart frock for evening that one feels absolutely at ease and well dressed in." Miss Simms commented.

"You want a formal evening gown, then?" Madame asked.

"Yes," Miss Simms replied. "Something that I can wear to an evening party, the theatre or to dinner at a restaurant."

"I have a charming gray chiffon in mind for you," said Madame, eyeing Miss Simms's dark hair and aristocratic features.

"I had no particular color in mind," the client explained, "so I'd like to have you show me anything you think would be attractive for me. I've decided to have you have one's mind open to persuasion where colors are concerned."

"Yes, provided one knows the colors one absolutely cannot wear," Madame granted.

"Yes, I'll agree with you there," replied Miss Simms. "But it's so easy to get a run on certain colors and forget that there are any number of heavenly ones left to give variety."

"How would you like a lovely gray?" Madame asked.

"I think I should like it," replied the client after a moment's thought. "I haven't worn gray much, and I'm really tired of blacks and pastel tones."

"You would be lovely in gray," Madame said, after she had asked the saleswoman to have some "how 'Red Wing' our newest gray frock."

"It is headed in red," she explained to Miss Simms. "To get the tint of a gray material, you have only to hold it in folds and observe the cast which the shadow of the material make. There are yellow-grays and pink-grays and any number of tones."

"Very smart," Miss Simms murmured as I came out in the pale gray "Red Wing" with its irregular lines of heading in red.

"You see, there's a warm tint to this gray that is lovely with your complexion," Madame said, catching a fold of the material in her hand and casting an admiring glance at Miss Simms's shapely complexion.

"The simple liner is stunning, and I like the set-in belt," said the client, rising from her chair and standing with her head tilted critically to one side.

This Sleeveless Frock Is of Pale Gray Chiffon Finely Beaded in Red.

The girl's swing loose at the front. I think I shall take this frock if it looks half as well on me as it does on the mannikin," Miss Simms decided.

"If you're wearing it to dinner in the evening, one of these lovely hair-straw hats would complete a stunning costume," Madame advised.

"I should like one," Miss Simms said. "They're very smart for dining, and then we often stay at our country place till late in the season and motor in to the city for evening parties."

She finally decided on a stunning big hat with rolls of red about its crown, and she made a lovely picture in the soft gray with its lively note of red.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, AUG. 13-14.

Sunday's astrological figure augurs an interesting day, especially in all spiritual and intellectual pursuits. It may be a good day for writings and for dealing with superiors or for asking favors.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an active and successful year, with advancement or recognition. A child born on this day will be clever, popular and successful, although it may be considered somewhat erratic unless it is carefully trained.

Monday's horoscope is not to be read as very important in business affairs, although it holds some ominous figures for the safety and happiness of the domestic circle. It would be well to guard against all kinds of disputes and to safeguard the personal health and that of the household.

Those whose birthday it is should avoid disputes and guard the health of themselves and their households. A child born on this day should be given early training in unselfish and conservative conduct, as its tendency may, otherwise, be toward self-interest.

NEWCOMERSTOWN HAPPENINGS OF LIVE INTEREST

By Staff Correspondent

BELLAIRE NO MATCH FOR HUSKY CLOWS

The Bellaire baseball nine proved to be no opposition to the fast Newcomerstown Clows on Warner Field Saturday afternoon and consequently the home team walked the visitors by a score of 8 to 1.

Up until the sixth inning Pitcher Oscar Sheets held the visitors to three well scattered hits. They managed to get four safeties in three remaining innings.

The third frame was a bad inning for Bellaire. The Clows ran in six scores in that inning. They touched up Pitcher Ross Mooney for 11 safeties and many went for two baggers. The Clows slugged Mooney's offerings in every inning. Mooney was formerly of the Michigan League.

Catcher Parker and second baseman Norman were the chief hitters on the Newcomerstown nine. Each got three hits out of four trials to the plate. Newcomerstown figured in two nifty double plays.

Sheets pitched an effective game against Bellaire.

The Newcomerstown aggregation will match up with the fast Massillon Agathons on Warner Field Thursday evening. The Clows, according to Manager Earl Turford, will be strengthened considerably in order to give the semi-pro champions a good exhibition. "We expect to beat the Agathons if we get half a chance," said the Clow manager Saturday.

Many tickets were sold Saturday for Thursday's game. Fans from neighboring towns are planning on seeing the game at Warner Field Thursday.

The Newcomerstown Clows are planning on opening a series of games with the Coshocton Regulars at Newcomerstown on September 2.

Following is the box score of Saturday's game:

MISS WALKENSPAW WEDS CANTON MAN

Friends and relatives in Newcomerstown Saturday evening received word of the marriage of Miss Odessa Walkenspa, aged 26, of west State-st., to Mr. Harvey Groves, aged 30, of Canton, which took place in Canton Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves expect to make their home in Canton.

WILD AUTO RIDERS FINED BY MAYOR

Paul Loner, who lives in Coshocton, George Minnis, of Clow av., Newcomerstown and Guy Bernice, of Newcomerstown, changed their plea from not guilty to guilty before Mayor W. T. Bannag to the charge of intoxication, were fined and released.

Loner and Minnis were charged with intoxication and were fined $5 and costs. Bernice was charged with intoxication and driving a car while intoxicated. He was fined $50 and costs.

These three foreigners were implicated in the wild joy ride in an auto mobile last Wednesday near Newcomerstown. All were intoxicated, officers say. Marshalls Fisher and McConnell arrested the party and confined them to the Newcomerstown jail. They were in jail for two days before they pleaded guilty to their respective charges.

Bernice cannot, by law, drive his machine for 60 days. He was driving the auto when they were caught.

BUSINESS MEN TO PICNIC AUG. 23

The posters are already out and everything is in readiness for the Business Men's picnic, which is to be held at Riverside Park, on August 23.

It will be a holiday in Newcomerstown on that day. Every citizen, young or old is eligible to attend and according to information received Saturday in that village, every family and their dog, if they have any, will participate in the activities at Riverside Park that day.

The band concert will be given by the Hyperion band of Newcomerstown. Conductor Manuel Yingling said Saturday that he had a splendid musical program to render on that date.

CORN IS BADLY IN NEED OF RAINS

The pasture fields and corn fields in Tuscarawas county and in the eastern part of Coshocton county are in great need of rain. The corn is very high along the eastern part of Coshocton and so far in a healthy condition. According to some of the farmers up in that section of this county, if the corn does not get rain soon, there will be no bumper crop as expected.

The Tuscarawas river bridge at Orange has been refloored with new lumber. It was completed Saturday and traffic was going to and fro over the bridge Saturday afternoon.

CORN PROSPECTS IN OHIO REMAIN ABOUT AVERAGE AUG. FIRST

Wheat A Disappointment, Yielding Only 15 Bu. To The Acre

COLUMBUS, Aug. 12.—Corn condition at this time is still a little below the average for the last ten years and whether we have a fairly good crop depends largely on the rainfall during the next few weeks. This is especially true in the northern and north central parts of the state where corn still shows the effects of late planting according to Statistician C. J. West of the State Federal Crop Reporting Service.

On the basis of the present outlook for the crop the Ohio production of corn will probably be from 150,000,000 to 155,000,000 bushels which is about the same as last year. And likewise the United States prospects now stand at about the same point as a year ago and indicate a crop of around 3,000,000,000 bushels. It must always be remembered, however, that a corn forecast at the first of August carries with it all the uncertainty of the weather during the next month so that the September report may show a considerable increase or decrease from these August figures.

Wheat Will Average 15 Bushels Per Acre In Ohio.

Returns from several thousand farms in the state show that the average threshing yield of wheat is about 15 bushels per acre. This is a marked decline from the indications earlier in the season and gives a total production of about 35,000,000 bushels. The yield last year was 12.5 bushels per acre and the ten year average is 16.5 bushels. The United States crop of winter wheat is estimated at 511,000,000 bushels which is 40,000,000 bushels less than last year's crop. The spring wheat crop is forecast at 263,000,000 bushels or about 60,000,000 bushels more than last year so that the total wheat crop of the United States will, from present indications be about the same size as last year.

Farm Supplies of Oats Less Than A Year Ago.

Farm stocks of oats carried over from last year amount to 73,000,000 bushels for all the country, which is less than half the number of bushels carried over a year ago. The estimated United States oats crop is 1,250,000,000 bushels or about 200,000,000 bushels more than last year. The prospects in Ohio are for a decidedly better crop than last year but even at that the crop will be below the average with indications of a crop of from 15,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels.

Tobacco Shows a Decline in Condition. The state average condition of tobacco now stands at 78 which is a decline of 7 points from a month ago.

EXECUTIVES OFFER

rights of the strikebreakers to be guarded in every particular and the word of the rail heads that those men will be retained—to be scrupulously kept.

These in main, are said to be the principle points of the documents which the committee will hand to President Harding. The matter of the executives keeping their word with the strikebreakers—and those few men who remained at work—is declared to be one of the features of the reply. And it is this point which virtually makes a compromise of the answer.

The fact that the reply will be presented by a committee—and not telegraphed, as was the answer to the first proposal made by the president—is taken as an indication that the executives have found common ground on which they can stand with Harding.

The rail heads' decisions was not agreed upon without stormy scenes in which divergent opinions were frankly expressed. The hush-hall group held out to the last, it is said, in their opposition to any surrender and their attitude of mind was indicated when President Underwood of the Erie, sitting in the board room after the meeting, declared, in answer to a question, "the righteous have been forsaken."

Bavarians Renew Monarchist Fight

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Intimation of fresh monarchists' activity in Bavaria soon was given to International News Service by Count Lerchenfeldt, premier of Bavaria.

"Restoration of the Bavarian kingdom within the German Republic would be quite possible," said the Bavarian premier. "It would not conflict with the unity of the constitution."

Neilson Recovers

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Major G. Neilson, former chief of the intelligence department of the Royal Irish Constabulary, who was reported by the Daily Mail to have been found in a dying condition in a road near Ashburton, Devonshire, is recovering.

After lingering unconscious for many hours, during which doctors despaired of saving his life, Major Neilson rallied and became conscious.

Scotland Yard believes that a clue has been found to the identity of the men who tried to assassinate Neilson. The Royal Irish Constabulary formerly policed Ireland. It was a quasi-military organization.

BELLAIRE HAS A GOOD REP; HARD GAME EXPECTED

The fast Bellaire baseball aggregation that played in Newcomerstown Saturday afternoon with the Clows of that village; will face the fast Coshocton Regulars on the Red Sea diamond this afternoon.

The local management has procured the services of Catcher Durant from an eastern league team to catch Pitcher Statler this afternoon. Statler was out of form last Thursday evening against the American Sweepers of New Philadelphia, but has brot in a number of wins for the locals since he began to pitch for them.

It was learned Saturday evening that Pitcher Mooney, of the Southern League, will be on the mound for Bellaire against the Regulars this afternoon. The fans are guaranteed a fast attraction on the local field this afternoon. Bellaire, as a ball club, has an excellent reputation.

The Regulars and the P. H. A. C's clash in the third game of the season on the Red Sea diamond Thursday afternoon. Each team has won a game. The Regulars lost the first game to Dennison at P. H. A. C park by a score of 18 to 3. The locals turned the tables on the P. H. A. C's and won from them by a score of 1 to 1 at Red Sea park later.

Secretary Otto Bries stated Saturday evening that Pitcher Vaughn and Catcher Gil of Akron would be here Thursday to act as the battery against the fast railroaders. Vaughn beat the P. H. C's the last time he faced them.

Other good games will be held on the Red Sea diamond before the close of the season the local management stated Saturday. The series with Newcomerstown, which will be the best four games out of seven, will begin in Newcomerstown on September 2. It was unofficially announced Saturday.

E. LIVERPOOL MAN

ISSUES DEFI TO LOCAL WRESTLER K. OF P. RALLIES IN EIGHTH, BUT LOSES TO C. LEWISVILLE

The Coshocton Tribune & Times-Age has received a letter from George Seltris, lightweight wrestler, of East Liverpool, in which said that he would challenge Billy Hallas of Coshocton a Greek wrestler to a finish match at any time and at any place.

Seltris said that he tried to match with Hallas on several occasions and that Hallas has evaded him. "If he has any sporting blood he will wrestle me," Seltris stated in his letter.

His address is 521 East Sixth-st., East Liverpool, O.

THE SPORT CRUCIBLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

YES—WITH A CLUB.

There's "welcome" on the foot-rest. In the enry by the door. As cheery a word as ever you heard. Awaiting forevermore.

The halt, the lame, the blind, the weak. The weary and the foot sore. We play no favorites nor look. For boons they can't afford. Each visitor here has nothing to fear. We charge no dues nor board. But the one guest we welcome best. Our poor but honest landlord.

It is with some difficulty that we restrain a tear as we consider the sad case of Benny Leonard, our noble lightweight champion, who says he is almost broke. It reminds us so much of John D., poor fellow. John, you know, just about contrives to eke out an existence.

WELL PLAYED, OLD HANGNAIL

After due deliberation the British lawn tennis authorities have declined to permit Gerald Patterson to meet the winner of the American singles title in a match that would have established the identity of the world's champion with official finality. The British, it seems, feel that the Australian became world champion automatically by winning at Wimbledon.

And by so doing they obligingly ignore the fact that any one of four Americans might have beaten Patterson on that occasion.

LOONEY LINES:

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce has invited Harry Frazee to drop in at headquarters any time he happens to be in town.

The recent winning streak of the Pittsburgh Pirates would seem to bear out the contention that the club was not giving its best to George Gibson. However, it has come to be an accepted axiom of the ball field that a team always does well for a new manager until the novelty of having him around wears off. Even the Phillies were a two-weeks' sensation under Irving Wilhelm when he first took hold last Summer.

Perhaps that is the answer to Bill McKee's unusual success with the team. At any rate, the proof of the matter is distinctly up to Bill himself. They won't remember past performances if the club begins to slip.

ALLAN WOODRING, QUARTER MILER.

The decision of Allan Woodring to forsake the sprints in favor of the quarter mile is well advised for either or both of the following reasons.

Woodring is by no means a fast man off the mark in the sense that Paddock, Murchison and Leoney are fast. He has been forced to do much of his running in the latter stages of nearly all his sprint races. This has been a bit hard on his reputation.

In addition, Woodring's muscles seem particularly susceptible to strain and sprinting is bad business for an athlete with weak tendons.

As a quarter miler the strain will be reduced to a minimum, and except at rare intervals the art of fast starting will not be altogether essential. Best of all, Woodring's matchless leg action and rare speed make of him an ideal man at the distance. When the field breaks away in the double furlong at the national championships next month the mere presence of Allan Woodring will endanger Meredith's record of 17.25 around one turn, a record which so many of us had thought immune.

SUMMER HEAT CAUSES VICE-PRESIDENT TO FORGET THE NAMES OF 3 SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—Vice-President Coolidge, the "memory expert" of the senate, seldom errs in recognizing Senators, but the hot weather recently caused him to make three blunders, to the amusement of the galleries and embarrassment of the Senators.

The vice-president, with the necessity of keeping the names and home states of ninety-six senators constantly in mind, can be excused, his memory, however, slipped the other day when he recognized Senator La Follette, R., of Wisconsin, as the "Senator from Minnesota." La Follette ignored the recognition, calling again to the chair until the vice president realized his mistake and gave the noted Wisconsin Senator his correct address.

Closely following this slip Coolidge called Pat Harrison, Democrat, leader from Mississippi, the "Senator from Louisiana." Harrison, however, indignantly passed by the error and began his speech. Fellow Senators chuckled the Mississippi leader that he was "losing his prestige."

The third mistake came a few minutes later when the Vice President called to Senator Knox, D., of Illinois, the "Senator from Idaho." Knox, however, ignored the mistake.

Forming Habits.

Whatever you do, do it right. Practice it, and if you do not, it is a thing habit, and you are not, but habituate yourself to do it right, else—Disasters.

LOCAL EXHIBITORS MASTERS IN ART OF EXPLOITING MOVIES

Chacos Brothers, Coshocton movie exhibitors, are past-masters in the difficult art of exploiting their pictures and getting publicity.

They put over a recent serial, "Robinson Crusoe," in such great shape that Teddy won one of the three fifty dollar prizes in the film company's running $7,000 exploitation contest.

In yesterday's issue of "The Universal Weekly," an exhibitors' magazine, is a story of how the picture was introduced by ads in the Tribune, a tree show on the opening day for children and a huge parade headed by a thirty-foot pine land and composed of float with banners and marching children. A two column cut shows the Tribune theatre with a crowd of a couple of hundred children in front of it.

A stand that drew even more attention to a picture at last movie publicity was provided on a north side when a velvet woman bearing a banner "Chacos Bros." and carrying a baby walked the down town streets. It got plenty of attention.

Two men for some kind heart took up the matter to the police, saying it was something for boys to see. Chacos Bros. to avoid a charge of advertising there.

And when the local exhibitors put a new legal picture in the city, they got to day the police to get a safe hunch as to the picture and move to be put in the news with a but free publicity to the picture.

At any rate, they have the picture and get the publicity.

Buckeye Brevities Gathered By I. N. S.

ATHENS, Aug. 12—The city council has ordered the removal of all gasoline filling stations and other obstructions from Main street within the coming 60 days. Some steps and stairways have been in their present position on the sidewalks for nearly a century. A real battle is on.

ELYRIA, Aug. 12—The Floral Court Fall Bearers indoor baseball team have accepted the defi of the East Madison Seniors indoor club of Cleveland. The Fall Bearers have as their motto "We bury them all," and when the team gets a substantial lead the team photographer plays a funeral march (one game will probably be played in Cleveland and another in this city).

BUCKEYS, Aug. 12—Following fresh threats of violence by striking railway shop men at Crestline, Sheriff Edward J. Knappenberger and deputies went over to that city to take charge of affairs until the railway strike is settled. The 200 local men out on strike at the Toledo & Ohio Central shops here are taking things calmly. No trouble is feared or even anticipated.

WADSWORTH, Aug. 12—This section has no fears for the outcome of the coal strike despite the curtailment of street lights to conserve the coal supply on the part of the city.

A new coal mine a mile and a half from Wadsworth is about to be opened which will enter only to retail trade. The coal is of the Massillon No. 1 grade. The coal vein is five feet thick and covers 75 acres.

This mine, with the addition of the other local mines, is looked upon as precluding any possibility of a coal famine once the miners get back to work.

OBERLIN, Aug. 12—The Old Vets of Cleveland and volunteer firemen from Elyria, Lorain, Amherst, Vermilion, Huron, Medina, Wadsworth and Wellington will participate in the 25th annual convention of the Northern Ohio Volunteer Firemen's association to be here Aug. 16. There will be three bands in the parade which will be followed by competitions in firemen's feats.

The old hand-pumping engine which fought fires in Cleveland upwards of sixty years ago will be used in the pumping and water-throwing exhibition. A water fight, with water at high pressure, will be one of the novel entertainments. State Fire Marshal H. A. Dykeman, of Elyria, will deliver the address at the business session. Vermilion will be awarded the 1923 convention.

HAYDENVILLE, Aug. 12—Gifford Miller, 6, was perhaps fatally hurt when struck by a motor car in front of his home here. The child ran in front of the car before the eyes of his father who was working nearby. No blame was attached to the driver of the car.

NELSONVILLE, Aug. 12—The heavy storms of the past few days in northern Athens county and southern Hocking and Perry counties have done heavy damage. Small streams reached the highest stage ever known at a number of points. Bridges were washed away and several barns struck and destroyed by fire, resulting from lightning.

ELYRIA, Aug. 12—City Solicitor D. A. Baird was instructed by the council to draft an anti-smoke ordinance following complaint from the women in factory, hospital and school districts that smoke generally soils the week's washings. No complaint is made by smoke from railroad locomotives but it is believed that the new ordinance will also "muzzle" engine smoke.

LOGAN, Aug. 12—Logan is to have a woman as postmaster within a few days. Miss Ida Steinman, who has been a faithful worker in the office for the past 19 years, has landed the appointment. She succeeds G. W. Christman, who goes back to public school work.

DEFIANCE, Aug. 12—John A. Deindecker has been named chairman of a Commerce Club committee to raise funds for and erect a memorial to the late George W. Bachel, founder of Riverside cemetery here. There is no monument to his honor.

BUCKEYS, Aug. 12—Hagenback-Wallace, booked for Buckyrus, August 19, will show on the same grounds where they were flooded out May 31, 1908, by the high water of the Sandusky river. The local citizens witnessed a free exhibition of the elephants wading in water up to their stomachs while hauling out the circus equipment from the flooded fields.

OBERLIN, Aug. 12—Cleveland, Lorain, Elyria and New London pastors are participating in the tent meetings and home comings of the Rust M. E. church being held nightly.

ELYRIA, Aug. 12—The city council has adjourned until September 11 to permit the councilmen to enjoy their annual vacation.

McARTHUR, Aug. 12—Ed R. King, of this city, is back in a local bank after having been in the air for the past two weeks—not married, but flying. King was a crack army flyer in the World war and is now in the air reserve corps. He has just returned from Camp Knox, Ky., where he was called to renew his flying work.

Hooper Summoned
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—Rep. W. Hooper, chairman of the railway labor board, was called to the White House for another conference with President Harding on the railroad strike crisis today. Hooper went to the White House at 10.30 A. M.

HE KILLED TO GET RING FOR GIRL

Frank B. DuPre, only nineteen, will be hanged in the Atlanta, Ga., jail in September for the murder of I. C. Walker, a private detective, who caught him trying to steal a diamond ring from a jewelry store. DuPre shot down the detective and then ran down a crowded street in the heart of the city and into a hotel lobby, where he shot Graham West, Comptroller of the City of Atlanta, in the chin as the latter sought to disarm him. He escaped to Detroit and was caught there after having written a letter to Betty Andrews, of Atlanta, for whom he tried to steal the ring.

McCORMICK'S FORMER WIFE TO WED A SWISS GARDENER, SHE SAYS

Pop, Mom And Mathilde All Ready To March To Lohengrin's Tune

(Copyright 1922 by Chicago American Publishing Company.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 12—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick will marry Edward Krenn, 28 year old Swiss architect and landscape gardener, in Chicago in February, according to an authoritative source today close to the counsels involving both sides of the divided home of the McCormicks.

Mr. Krenn came to the United States on the same boat as Mrs. McCormick and has been living at the Drake Hotel ever since.

Mr. Krenn has been associated with Mrs. McCormick's interests for several years. They met during Mrs. McCormick's early association with Dr. Jung's colony in Zurich, Switzerland, and their chance acquaintance ripened into a closer bond during the intervening years. When she came to this country Mrs. McCormick brot the young architect over and set him to work on plans for the extensive zoological gardens she is presenting to Cook co. and which are to be located in the forest preserve near this city.

Unlike her former husband Harold F. McCormick, who married Ganna Walska, famous Polish Grand Opera singer in Paris yesterday, Mrs. McCormick plans to continue a resident of this city and set her wedding date to conform to the laws of the state forbidding a marriage of divorced persons within a year after the signing of the separation decree. It also came known today that the marriage of Miss Mathilde McCormick, daughter of Harold McCormick and Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, and Max Oser, Swiss riding master, would take place within the next few days and that it was because of the imminence of Mathilde's impending nuptials that her father hastened to his marriage in order that he and his bride might witness his daughter's wedding.

LUCERNE, Aug. 12—Switzerland appeared today to have mysteriously swallowed both Mathilde McCormick 17 year old grand daughter of John D. Rockefeller, and her 47 year old suitor, Max Oser, Swiss riding master. Inquiry at the latter hotels here elicited the information that Miss McCormick is not present.

Major Oser has left his home in the village of Reiden by motor car, but refused to reveal his destination. Dr. Manold of Reiden, a friend of both the McCormick and Oser families meets all comers with an air of mystery. Telephone enquiries at Zurich brot the reply that Miss McCormick was not registered at any of the fashionable hotels in that city.

Major Oser has announced to the authorities that he has taken up his local residence at Reiden. According to the law the bans must be posted for a fortnight before there could be a wedding and the ceremony might be conducted any place in Switzerland where the bride is a minor her father's consent is necessary.

Insanity Attributed to Poisoned Whiskey
ST LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 12—Ye imbuters of "bad hootch," take heed. Blaming the concoctions now being sold promiscuously, Dr. Charles F. Bauer referred to statistics of the City Sanitarium here, which show a marked increase in the number of insane patients.

On July 24, 1921, there were 2,565 patients registered, while on the same date this year there were 2,707 patients. This number will show a big increase the next two years, Dr. Bauer predicts.

RIFLE GIVES ANSWER OF JAP GENERAL REGARDING EFFICIENCY OF HIS TROOPS

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 12—In his finest uniform, bedecked with gold lace and medals for bravery, Major-General H. Haraguchi, of the Japanese army, witnessed the Seventh New York National Guard Regiment at target practice on a 500-yard range.

"Are the commissioned officers of the Japanese army well trained from the ground up?" he was asked by an American officer.

He answered half an hour later.

It was raining. The firing line was a quagmire. In the mud of the centre line lay a private, mud-smeared. Every time he fired at a target a flag waved over that target, informing him that he had missed the mark. The Japanese general smiled as the Yank private missed again and again.

"May I take the soldier's rifle?" he queried of Adjutant-General J. Leslie Kincaid, who nodded assent.

The private rose from his pit, saluted, handed his rifle to the Nippon officer and moved to the rear.

General Haraguchi slid into the muddy hole. He fired ten shots.

From the pit under the target a soldier telephoned:

"Ten straight bull-eyes. Some shooting, buddy!"

General Haraguchi, mud-covered, smiled.

"Japanese officers," he said, "are well trained—from the ground up."

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12—Crazed because he was unable to sleep and laboring under the delusion that he was pursued by enemies, William Weldon, 38, of Sparta, Ky., slashed his throat and wrists with a razor Friday morning and then attempted to strangle himself with his belt when other roomers at his boarding house discovered him.

FOUR INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY IN KY. MURDER

GRAYSON, Ky., Aug. 12—Robert Bigges, Jack Bigges, Maud Bigges and Cam Bigges were indicted by a special grand jury in the Carter circuit court here on the charge of conspiring with G. Giardiana to murder Charles Duval, of Olive Hill. Duval was acquitted of the killing of Dr. Harvey Bigges at the February term of court.

Giardiana was convicted at this term of court and sentenced to eight years in the state reformatory for shooting from ambush at Charles Duval and others who last June were repairing telephone wires near the Bigges place.

It is alleged that the Bigges got Giardiana, of Marion, Ohio, and another man, now unknown, to waylay Duval. Since the conviction of Giardiana his wife informed authorities she knew of the contract and would tell all. She was before the grand jury. The Bigges, after they were arrested, were granted a change of venue and the case will be tried in the Lawrence-co circuit court in Louisa, September 28. Bonds of $5,000 were given for each defendant.
